MONUMENT.

An Interesting Event at the Leper Settlement of Molokai-Two Addresses Made.

The party that went to Molokai returned this morning. The principal event of the visit was the unveiling of the Damien monument, at which Mr. Stiles of the Foreign Office, made the Bishop and the audience present:

following address to the Catholic YOUR LORDSHIP: I have been delegated by His Excellency the President of the Provisional Government to come hither and place in charge of the Catholic church this memorial monument, gift of the National Leprosy Fund of Great Britain, the honorary president of which association is His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. In under taking this mission it was with the earnest desire that I might be able to bring with this beautiful stone some words of comfort and cheer, some message that would inspire hope among you. It comes from an association composed of the leading men of a great and enlightened nation who have organized for the purpose of aiding in every possible way in the alleviation of those suffering with leprosy, to bring to their aid all that money and science can lend towards its relief and cure. Under the patronage and support of the donors of this memorial scientific men are studying the disease in the distant Indies, in the cold regions of Norway and where the waters of the St. Law rence wash the shores of Tracadie. Their powerful influence and aid have been promised to this Government in selecting a skilled specialist to study the disease here. This monument-the type of enduring faith-brings you this message; all that human effort can do for you is being done. It is a token from a far distant land assuring you of the sympathy and compassion of the outside world in your affliction. In the busy mart of the world's commercial center, amid the strife for gain and political supremacy, a philanthropical organization has sprung up, Phœnix-like, from the ashes of a hum ble servant of the Catholic Church-Father Damien-composed of men re nowned in the service of the State the Church, in the profession of medi cine and surgery, and in civil life whose leader is England's future king. Their sole aim and object is to discover a balm for those afflicted with leprosy, to bring the torch of medical science to enlighten the gloom that has so long surrounded thousands of victims in every land and clime. The result of modern research and study of the it may be grappled with with the hope of ultimate success. Though the exthe task almost fruitless, yet the healing art has made such prodigious strides during the past half century that it is confidently hoped that fresh methods and new zeal brought to bear on the subject will yet solve the problem. It is the wish of the donors fellow sufferers, of their earnest and continued efforts for your relief. Let us take a brief glance over the history of the father whose name and memory we have gathered here to honor. He was born at Tremeloo, a small village near the city of Louvain, in Belgium, on January 3rd, 1840. When a youth of four and twenty, while yet a theological student at a Belgian university, the sudden illness of a brother, who had entered the priesthood and was on the eve of departure for these tion the church authorities that he stead.
